

IS YOUR
BUSINESS
INTELLIGENCE
SOLUTION
ENGINEERED FOR GROWTH?

Success. No matter what it means to you or how you define it, it's something we all strive for. And no matter what industry you're in, visions of goals achieved and missions accomplished speak volumes to anyone with expectations of success.

As you're aware, technology – like life itself – is ever-evolving, ever-changing. You buy a new smart phone or invest in a business management software and before you even have a chance to set it up, you're pinged with a system update notification.

From nature to technology, if there's one thing you can count on it's that nothing ever stays the same; everything is always evolving. This applies to your business as well.

In fact, if you're not PROgressing, you're actually REgressing because everything around you, including your competitor, is working hard at moving towards that next level.

This may apply to your business offering, but more importantly, it applies to the way that you manage your business, including its growth.

In the context of data and working with a business intelligence solution, you want something that integrates naturally with your business's growing needs. In other words, you want a BI solution that is engineered for growth by following what we call the rule of 100%:

- 100% Accessible
- 100% Scalable
- 100% Adaptable
- 100% Flexible

Some believe that success is a matter of luck. We disagree. In our experience, success is a matter of ensuring that you're working with the right tools.

The greatest philosophers talk about learning from the past. Working with the ideal BI product takes this principle one step further:

With the right BI solution, you get to learn from your historical data AND benefit from real-time information.

In BI terms, consolidate the past with the present and you've just given yourself and your business a competitive edge with the power to efficiently forecast the direction of your company initiatives.

For anyone seeking to attain success – from the entrepreneur to the business manager, sales professional, production lead, and manufacturer – the ideal business intelligence solution will seamlessly manage your company's growing needs. In turn, giving you a continuous 360-degree view of your business activities ... precisely the view you need for attaining your vision of success!

ABOUT TANGERINE SOFTWARE

Tangerine Software is committed to providing companies of all sizes with innovative Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) and Business Intelligence (BI) solutions that enhance business management and foster continued growth.

TangerineSoftware.com

